Dedication

This year we are dedicating the yearbook to the group of people that have such a tremendous influence on us as students, the faculty. Through all of the financial difficulties that MVC is facing the faculty remains dedicated. This year, they endured a much heavier work load than previous years in order to sustain the school and keep it a free standing institution. The students are extremely fortunate to be taught by professors of such high quality. Through the years they have not only been our teachers, they have been our mentors and our friends. The faculty members perform above and beyond what their duty dictates. They always make time in their busy schedules to give extra help or advice. The professors provide the students with a warm, caring environment in which to develop ideas and grow both intellectually as well as spiritually. The tremendous level of excellence sustained by the faculty makes attending college a fulfilling and inspiring experience for us all. Therefore, the students would like to extend our profound appreciation to the faculty for your infinite devotion, your time, and above all for sharing with us your knowledge, and always giving us your care and concern. Thank you.

From 1985-1989, Dr. Geiselman was vice president for institutional advancement at the Eisenhower Medical Center in Los Angeles. There, she was responsible for fundraising and active in institutional strategic planning. "The whole campus is delighted by Dr. Geiselman's appointment as president, and we look forward to working with her," says Board Chairman Ann Oliver (S '63). "Her energy and vision for contemporary women's education will provide the forward momentum and leadership that Mount Vernon needs to turn the challenges of the new decade into opportunities and growth."

The President

Dr. Geiselman, whose appointment as president of Mount Vernon College was announced June 1 by the Board of Trustees, comes to Mount Vernon from the California Institute of Arts in Valencia where she served as vice president for planning and advancement since 1989.

Dr. Geiselman's professional background is in higher education and management as well as in institutional relations and fundraising. At CalArts, for example, she planned and established an institutional relations program that brought both resources and leadership to the institution.

Patrick, Chrissy, Catherine, Jackie and Christopher

To Catherine Pyfrom at Graduation

New hopes, new dreams before you lay
Behind you the conquests of yesterday
Let strong resolve and loving thoughts your companions be
Then before you all doubts and fears shall flee

Fill your mind with thoughts of beauty and love
Rest not your eyes on things below, keep your glance above
Dwell often on happy memories of family and friends
For upon this bonding all lasting joy depends

New lofty dreams your thirsty mind now fills
Self Control will let you conquer those distant hills
With pride and love we watch you take new flight
And hope you'll always remember you are our hearts' delight.

Love,
Dad and Mom
